

Jonas Prising / President of the Americas

Jonas Prising was named President of the Americas in 2008. In this role, Prising oversees all aspects of Manpower's $4.1 billion business in North and South America, inclusive of Central America.

Prising joined Manpower in 1999 and has served as Managing Director of Manpower Italy, where he increased revenue by more than 50%, Director of Manpower Global Accounts – Europe, Middle East and Africa, and President of North America from 2006-2008.

Before joining Manpower, Prising worked for Electrolux, a Swedish multinational. During his 10-year tenure with Electrolux, he held various international positions within the consumer goods and business-to-business divisions, including: Regional Manager for Asia Pacific; Managing Director of Sales Companies in France and the United Kingdom; and finally Head of Global Sales & Marketing for one of its business-to-business divisions.

Prising holds an MBA from the Stockholm School of Economics and speaks five languages: English, French, German, Swedish and Italian. He presently serves on the board of directors for Junior Achievement Worldwide and Junior Achievement of Wisconsin Inc. He and his family reside in Milwaukee, Wis.